VARYING VIEWS ON CONFERENCE ARE EXPRESSED

Hope Rather Than Conviction of Success at Washington Prevails.

DISARMING PROBLEM

Needs of Nations Must Be Taken Into Consideration at Meeting.

Washington, Oct. 15.—A hope that the international conference here next month will rid the world of the evils of competitive armament, rather than a conviction that it will prevail among a majority of people, according to a symposium of views obtained by the International News Service today.

Few cared to flatly predict that the conference will be a success or a failure, but without exception those whose views were sought voiced a hope that it will accomplish lasting good.

A majority of opinions expressed came from senators and representatives, who theoretically at least, speak for their constituencies. Some of the views were expressed as follows:

Senator Wm. E. Borah, Republican, Idaho—"Public opinion, well organized and directed, is an indispensable element to the success of the conference. It cannot be too strong nor too insistent. I believe if the people of the respective nations should cease to be active and earnest and insist that the conference will accomplish little if anything. This is peculiarly a cause grounded in the hopes and aspirations of the masses."

Rep. Thomas S. Butler, Republican-Pennsylvania, chairman of the house naval affairs committee—"The delegates will meet to agree not to disagree. It will be a success. There will be an agreement on limitation of armament, not disarmament. There will be a cessation of the armament race, a limitation placed on future building."

Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican California—"One thing makes possible real accomplishment and that is the enlightened public opinion of the world. There is but one way in which world public opinion can operate and that is by publicity. Secret diplomacy will control secret sessions. Rulers are skeptical and cynical. Rulers will win in the dark; peoples in the open."

Rep. William A. Oldfield, Democrat Arkansas—"I don't expect anything to come out of the armament conference."

Ida M. Tarbell of New York—member of national unemployment conference—"If the pacific problem is settled, limitation of armament or complete disarmament, will follow logically."

Senator F. M. Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina—"In my judgement it will end in failure if any attempt is made to lay down a fixed principle for limitation of armament, or to effect a horizontal reduction of armament. The needs of nations must be taken into consideration."

Rep. Philip P. Campbell, Republican, Kansas, chairman of the rules committee—"The conference is certain to bring about a reduction of armaments. The delegates will come fresh from the people of tax burdened nations. Present taxation burdens must be lightened. Reduction of armament offers the opportunity."

Senator Reed, Democrat Missouri—"I do not know what will happen at the conference."

Senator Miles Poindexter, Republican, Washington, ranking member of the senate naval affairs committee—"The conference will do this, at least—it will find out whether Great Britain prefers her alliance with Japan to cordial relations with the United States."

General R. C. Marshall, former chief construction division, A. E. F.—"The conference will be successful if the statesmen do not advance too far beyond the conceptions already held by their constituents. To maintain a large standing army to guard against Germany. It will be necessary for the conference to assure France of protection."

WARM JOBLESS AWAY FROM WASHINGTON

Washington, Oct. 15.—The citizens' employment committee of the District of Columbia issued a statement last night advising those seeking employment in the government service not to come to Washington unless they are prepared to maintain themselves until such time as they are employed by the government.

They are warned, the statement said, that they cannot expect employment in any other channel in the interim.

The statement pointed out that the federal government already had discharged thousands of employees, many of whom are still out of work. "There is no assurance," it added, "that the situation will be changed for months to come; rather that there will be still further separations."

START DRIVE AGAINST LIQUOR TRAFFICKERS

Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes Gives Notice He is Going to Dry Up Great Western Pennsylvania Cases in Short Order.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 15.—Federal Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes arrived in Pittsburgh early today and immediately set about preparing for what he stated would be "the most vigorous campaign against traffickers in illicit whiskey, particularly manufacturer Haynes declared he eye runners that has ever been attempted."

Commissioner Haynes declared he was going to dry up the great western Pennsylvania cases in short order. His program covers every single angle of bootlegging, personal investigation of the records of the dry offices here and the two score great distilleries and bonded warehouses near Pittsburgh, where millions of gallons of whiskey have been withdrawn on real or spurious pretenses. Haynes declared he was going to pay a lot of attention to the records at the distilleries and warehouses in the hope of possibly uncovering responsibility for what are believed to be fraudulent permits.

Sherman A. Cuneo, personal representative of Mr. Haynes, speaking to a group of newspapermen said

"No one, regardless of prestige, wealth or 'pull' will be immune. Although every effort will be exerted to halt the traffic among the small violators who openly conduct 'blind pigs' in restaurants, grocery and confectionary stores, Commissioner Haynes will bend all energies in reaching the men 'higher up' who have amassed fortunes through an illicit whiskey trade."

Commissioner Haynes has a large staff of picked men here today to trace from bottom to top the ramifications of the illegal traffic in contraband whiskey and other intoxicants.

Already it is said, hundreds of bootleggers have run to cover and the rest are going to "lay off" while Haynes and his crew are here. There were indications that reported activities of some of the members of the police department might be looked into.

One of the hardest blows at the rum runners traffic is the order just issued by Commissioner Haynes that no more withdrawal permits be issued. Directors of prohibition in other states have been ordered to forward to Pennsylvania outstanding permits for withdrawal of liquor from Pennsylvania warehouses. In effect, it is stated, the number of outstanding permits will shrink.

Recalling the disastrous blaze of 1916, many hastily loaded their belongings on trucks or any available conveyances and hurried to the open fields.

Those whose homes were not destroyed are slowly returning but fear is felt by some that the flames may again break out. Every precaution against looting is being taken. Special police and deputies being stationed in the business and residence sections.

So far as is known no lives were lost or serious injuries caused by the fire.

WIFE THINKS HER HUSBAND VICTIM OF "WOMAN MANIA"

Hamilton, Oct. 15.—John B. Moore, of Columbus, was reelected president of the Ohio State Federation of Labor at the close of the thirty-eighth annual session here yesterday. He defeated John J. Quinlan, Toledo, former first vice president of the federation.

Other officers re-elected were:

Vice presidents, John G. Owens, Cleveland; Grant Fink, Dayton; Arthur Muhleman, Coshocton; William M. Morgan, Newark; Arnold Bill, Cleveland; Albert Hanbrook, Cincinnati; E. J. Tiney, Youngstown. James Roach, Cleveland, was elected delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention.

The 1922 convention will be held at Lorain, that city being selected over Columbus and Bellaire.

President Moore begins his fourth year as president. He also is head of the United Mine Workers.

The Ku Klux Klan was condemned in a resolution passed yesterday morning, delegates terming the organization "detrimental to the government of the United States."

Officers of the federation will make an immediate appeal to state officials for enactment of laws to allow cities home rule, as a relief to financial deficiencies in municipalities. Legislators will also be urged to adopt laws making it criminal for employers to work women more than 48 hours a week.

TO RESUME WORK ON PRISON FARM

Columbus, Oct. 15.—State Director of Welfare Macayel has announced that work on the administration building at the London prison farm is to be resumed immediately. No construction work has been performed on the farm since last December. It is planned to have the building under roof before winter and to go ahead with the interior work as soon as the roof is on.

Prisoners may be housed in the administration building when it is completed while the next building, probably a cell block is being constructed, it is said.

Gov. Davis, according to announcement, has decided upon immediate resumption work at the prison farm. About $185,000 is available for this expense. The state board of control may divert to the prison farm part of the $2,556,700 appropriated by the last state legislature for buildings at state penal and corrective institutions.

BREAKS SPEED RECORDS IN AIR RACE

SEEK LOWERED SMALL INCOME TAX OF 2 P. C.

Democratic Members of Senate Finance Committee Make Move.

FAVOR WALSH PLAN

Senator Intends to Fight for Adoption of Proposal By Senate.

Washington, Oct. 15.—A concerted movement to secure a substantial reduction of the income taxes paid by persons with moderate incomes was determined upon today at a conference of the Democratic members of the Senate finance committee.

It was decided to press for the acceptance of the proposal of Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, for a reduction of the smaller income tax rate to 2 per cent on incomes of $5,000 or less; 4 per cent on incomes from $5,000 to $10,000 and 6 per cent on incomes from $10,000 to $15,000. The tax at present is 4 per cent on $4,000 or less, 8 per cent above $4,000.

Senator Walsh, who has embodied his proposal in an amendment to the pending tax bill, said he intended to fight hard for its adoption by the Senate. A number of Senators on both sides are understood to favor it.

Most Democratic senators are inclined to accept the Republican compromise substitute for the pending measure as they claim that its provisions originated largely on the Democratic side but they are also insistent that several other provisions, including the Walsh proposal be adopted too, before they are asked to vote for the revised tax legislation on its final passage. The Democratic members of the senate finance committee who were with Senator Walsh stated that he and his Democratic associates were equally desirous of helping to put business and industry on their feet and to end unemployment, by the speedy enactment of same tax and tariff legislation.

Other officers elected were:

Vice presidents, John G. Owens, Cleveland; Grant Fink, Dayton;

Arthur Muhleman, Coshocton; William M. Morgan, Newark; Arnold Bill, Cleveland; Albert Hanbrook, Cincinnati; E. J. Tiney, Youngstown. James Roach, Cleveland, was elected delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention.

DAYTON POLICE BACK TRACKING IN MURDER CASE

Dayton, Oct. 15.—With the last eligible clue to the earth, police and detectives started out again this morning, no further advanced than they were at the beginning, in their search for the murderer of Lucien A. Soward, attorney, in his office in the Reibold building here Monday afternoon.

The police, yesterday, disposed of the clue of the "wealthy, powerfully built, business man" when he convinced the police of a strong alibi, and he was dropped from further investigation. His examination resulted from a "tip" that said that the man in question, whose name was not divulged, had had dealings with Soward and that a possible enmity occurred.

Police are now "back-tracking", taking up all the clues again, and will likely center their activities on finding the owner of the long-bladed knife that was used by the killer. About 40 of Soward's clients have been interviewed by the police without result so far.

Safety Director Myers, today, welcomed the offer of a reward of $500 by the county commissioners for information leading to clearing up the murder mystery. County Commissioner Mosby had previously said that such a reward would not be posted until it was proven that the police had failed of results, as it would cause feeling among the police. Myers said that no ill feeling would result and that if any results were expected, the police and citizens would have to cooperate.

Inspector Yendes, who is heading the murder investigation, says he believes that the murderer will be apprehended soon.

RED CROSS TO STAGE ANNUAL ROLL CALL

SOON IT IS LEARNED

The Fifth Annual Red Cross Roll Call in Greene County, will be opened by the County Chapter soon, it was learned Saturday.

The selection and acceptance of Mrs. A. E. Faulkner, as chairman, was made at the meeting of the Executive Board of the Chapter, held Thursday. It was decided at the meeting to make a drive for funds to support the Red Cross, for the coming year, at the time of the membership Roll Call.

Mrs. Faulkner will appoint her committees and begin the organization of the county within a short time. Plans for the open meeting, when the reports of the nurse and secretary will be made and the explanation of the work that is now being done by the Red Cross will be given, were left entirely to Mrs. Faulkner.

THE WRANGLE OVER THE PANAMA CANAL TOLLS MATTER.

The Borah bill for tolls exemption of American coastwise vessels passing through the Panama Canal was passed by the U. S. Senate 47 to 37.

The following is a history of this much mooted question, as to whether or not this is the right action which should have been taken—the country at large being about as much divided on the subject as was the senate.

In 1850 this nation and Great Britain signed the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty, setting down in black and white that the two countries would build a canal across the isthmus, at Panama, share and share alike in its control and its building. Americans did not like the joint-control idea. In 1901 the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty was made transferring to America all rights in construction and ownership, the one stipulation being, as set forth in Article III of the treaty:

"The canal shall be free and open to all vessels of commerce and war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation or its citizens or subjects in respect of the conditions of charges of traffic or otherwise."

The men who drew up the treaty, John Hay, Secretary of State, who authorized it, all the Americans who had anything to do with it, seem to have understood that the treaty meant just what it said. It seems plain enough that the "charges" that are to be levied shall be the same on the ships of all nations. The language is not muddy or vague.

In 1912 we saw fit to free American coastwise shipping, in American vessels, from the tolls. We did it on the plea that "all nations" does not include the United States and that by acquiring sovereign rights in Panama we were released from our obligations. As a matter of fact, the Nation paid little attention to rights or wrongs, feeling that as we had built the canal and were in possession of it we had a right to do as we pleased.

Like President Harding in 1921, President Wilson in 1913 came into office approving free tolls. He changed his mind and reversed his party after a bitter struggle, in 1914, lasting for three months, in which he had the help of powerful Republican Senators, including Root, Burton, Kenyon, Lodge and McCumber.

Now, the same old quarrel has come up in the same old way, with President Harding but half-approving the Borah measure and the partisan line-ups on both sides of the Senate broken. In the forty-seven votes for and thirty-seven votes against the Borah bill, Republicans and Democrats, Easterners, Westerners and Southerners stand elbow to elbow in both camps.

BACKWARD NATIONS HAVE MORE HOLIDAYS THAN PROGRESSIVE ONES.

"Another holiday; there are too many of them. They interfere with one's work."

That remark was made, Wednesday, not by a money-grabbing employer, but by an ordinary employee, when reminded that the day was a legal holiday, Columbus Day.

Well, now, how about it? Are we in danger of introducing too many holidays into our calendar? Are a great many holidays a good thing for a nation? Or are they a bad thing? Are they beneficial to employees, or have they a bad effect?

An associate compiled figures showing the number of public holidays in different countries. And what, think you, is the thought produced by the showing? It is this:

Backward nations go in for more holidays than do progressive nations.

Turkey has twenty-six major holidays, to say nothing of minor local ones. Brazil has twenty-eight of one kind or another, and each State adds one or two or three extra for good measure. Egypt has twenty-three big holidays and the natives revel in a great many more. China also observes twenty-three national holidays, and excuses are found in different parts for additional local celebrations. Mexico and Italy each has nineteen holidays; the former also has many local holidays. Argentina has twenty-one and Rumania squeezes in no fewer than two dozen.

In contrast with these, England has only half a dozen national holidays, while Scotland really observes only three general holidays in addition to a local holiday fixed by each community to suit its own convenience. Including bank holidays, Britain's total reaches ten. But bank holidays are little observed by the ordinary people outside of London.

How about our own country? There are no national legal holidays in the United States, each State fixing by law what days shall be legal holidays. The average, taking all States, is ten every year, but of late years there has been a distinct tendency to increase the number.

THE WONDERFUL CITY OF LOS ANGELES.

Los Angeles is the wonder city of the West. It was affected to less degree, perhaps, than any other center of the United States by the depression. With only a few exceptions, its industrial and general business concerns are doing more than in 1920.

It is a city of optimists. Nowhere do you find people more glowing in the praise of their town, and nowhere do you find so much team work by men of affairs.

Some extravagant spirits predict Los Angeles is destined to be the second city of America. Today it has the largest population on the West Coast, and is growing so fast as to startle a placid Easterner. Investigation, however, is likely to make the visitor believe the growth not only is healthy, but warranted, for the city is unique in its variety of assets. It has no labor troubles. That may be ascribed in part to the McNamara dynamite outrage of years ago that so incensed the public that unionism has been banned ever since. Another reason is that, as a general rule, workers own their own homes, and there is a garden patch to each home in which fruits, flowers and vegetables are raised. Still another reason is that there is no such thing as seasonal labor, outdoor workers being able to keep to their jobs winter and summer alike, owing to the mild climate.

In few large cities are living costs so low. Practically everything man eats is grown nearby, and nowhere in America is the marketing system so well organized and foods so cheap. The great increase in the volume of business in the last year can be explained only by the increase in population. One of the finest department stores reported its September sales 45 per cent greater than those of September, 1920.

EVIDENTLY OUR MODERN SAUL IS LIGHT-PROOF

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

A passing locomotive set fire to the supply house at the Pan Handle last night. The blaze which appeared on the roof, was discovered by the yard men, before the fire had gained much headway.

A new office has been created at the Pan Handle round house, John Murray, being made night inspector of engines.

Thornhill Brothers began work, this morning, in making a further improvement in the Xeno shoe factory, by adding a fourth story to the original brick structure, making the entire frontage on Leaman St., four stories in height.

Mr. Harry Sparks is spending a few days at his home in this city.

Mr. Jacob Baldner took his departure last night for Chicago, on a business trip.

Mr. Will Laughead, of this city who went to California, some months ago where he was in the employ of a big lumber firm has changed his location and is again at Benjill, Minn., where he was formerly employed.

TEN MINUTES RELAXATION
The older we grow, the more strain upon our energies is any prolonged exertion and the more time we must take to rest and to allow the body to recuperate. If only the nervous woman would realize, she would not find herself growing old before her time. If only the woman well into the thirties would heed this advice, she would not be overtaken by middle age when youth has only reached its best stage.

There are so many remedies for avoiding age! Some say drink water, which lubricates the body so to speak and helps it function properly. Some say to sleep early and keep to simple

It does not matter so much how long the periods of rest are, though of course you must have at least eight and, if possible, nine hours sleep at night. Even ten minutes rest in the afternoon will help you.

Thomas N. and M. T. Mc C.—The need of the average person is a period of eight hours for sleeping out of each 24 hours, so if you must rise at seven in the morning, you should retire before 11; however, this rule may be violated frequently and nature will make it up. Mental stimulation that is gained, even though sleep is lost, through a change of scene, or an evening of pleasure, will be more helpful than keeping to the set rule of taking eight hours sleep each night. Most people have too much sleep, but since they have made that a habit, they feel any deviation from it. Increase your weight by taking a table spoonful of olive oil in the same amount of grape juice three times each day.

Dotty—Before going into the water rub plenty of cream into the face and neck. This should keep you from being sunburned.

S. G.—Buttermilk does not fatten, unless it has plenty of butter flakes left in it, which will never be found now outside of the farm house product. It is an excellent food and a stimulant to the liver that is sluggish.

Line taken by the yoke and the trim effect of the front accomplished by the deep darts on the bodice. This model was shown in navy blue tricotine, with black and white striped silk for the facing of revers and sleeves.

With a small fur neck-piece, this type of dress provides the exceeding trim effect so much liked for street wear, good throughout the Fall and Winter for all-round service.

HOLD IMPRESSIVE SERVICES FRIDAY

Impressive services for Mrs. Anna Mary Currie Stewart, were held at the home of Mrs. C. L. Spencer, on West Third Street, Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in charge of the Rev. Charles P. Proudfit, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Rev. A. W. Jamison, and the Rev. Carson Webster of Clinton.

A quartette composed of Mrs. Graham Bryson, Miss Martha Anderson, William Anderson and Harvey Collins, sang the 23rd and 103rd Psalms.

The pallbearers were Ed. Galloway, Charles Currie, Charles Cooley and T. D. Kyle. Interment was made at Woodland cemetery.

DIET TO CONVENE

Munich, Oct. 14—The Bavarian diet is expected to convene in special session to consider the Upper Silesian situation. Forecasts of the league of nations decision which were unfavorable to Germany, have had the effect of alaying the hostility between Prussia and Bavaria.

But if you are hard worker, of if your work is a mental or a physical strain you must rest.

ENTERPRISE.

A week ago I chanced to say to Ebenezer Jones, "I'll buy myself a nice coupe when I can spare the bones." It was an idle, thoughtless speech, a wheeze, to all intents; I had no thought that it would reach the ears of passing gents. But when I reached my dwelling place, nine salesmen waited there, each with a glad and beaming face, and eloquence to spare. Along the curb their cars were parked, nine wagons, fair to see; and as one man these gents remarked, "Come, take a drive with me." And all the long, sunny day car dealers worked my phone, and each one had a grand coupe I really ought to own. And I grew wobbly in the knees, and my despair was tense, for salesmen roosted in the trees and sat upon the fence; they lifted up the window sash, and said, with nerve sublime, "In case you cannot spare the cash, we'll sell a car on time." By mail they flooded me with bunk, instructed me by wire, that I could trade in any junk, my shotgun or my lyre. For days they came, upon the jump, each with his fetching yarn; they got me when I went to pump, they ragged me in the barn. Hereafter when I've things to tell, all by myself I'll go, and whisper them down in a well—the deepest one I know.

WEST ALEX SCORES ON XENIA ELEVEN BUT LOSES 21-7

To West Alexandria High school football team goes the honor of cracking wide open Central High's record of shut-out victories.

In a weird exhibition of the gridiron sport, the visiting eleven, unable to win upset the local's white-wash record, but were defeated 21 to 7.

The unsullied record was clouded up in the beginning of the second half, in which period the visitors played the locals on even terms and scored their lone touchdown. Going down fast on Leatherman's punt from his own 30-yard line, Early recovered when Captain McCallister fumbled the kick and raced the remaining 40 yards for a touchdown. Ehler kicked the goal.

The locals used 16 passes during the game, eight of them being good including one lateral, while eight were failures. The visitors used nine passes and made three of them good, the other six not being completed. The locals easily made more first downs than the visitors and frequent fumbles ruined their attack, most of the time.

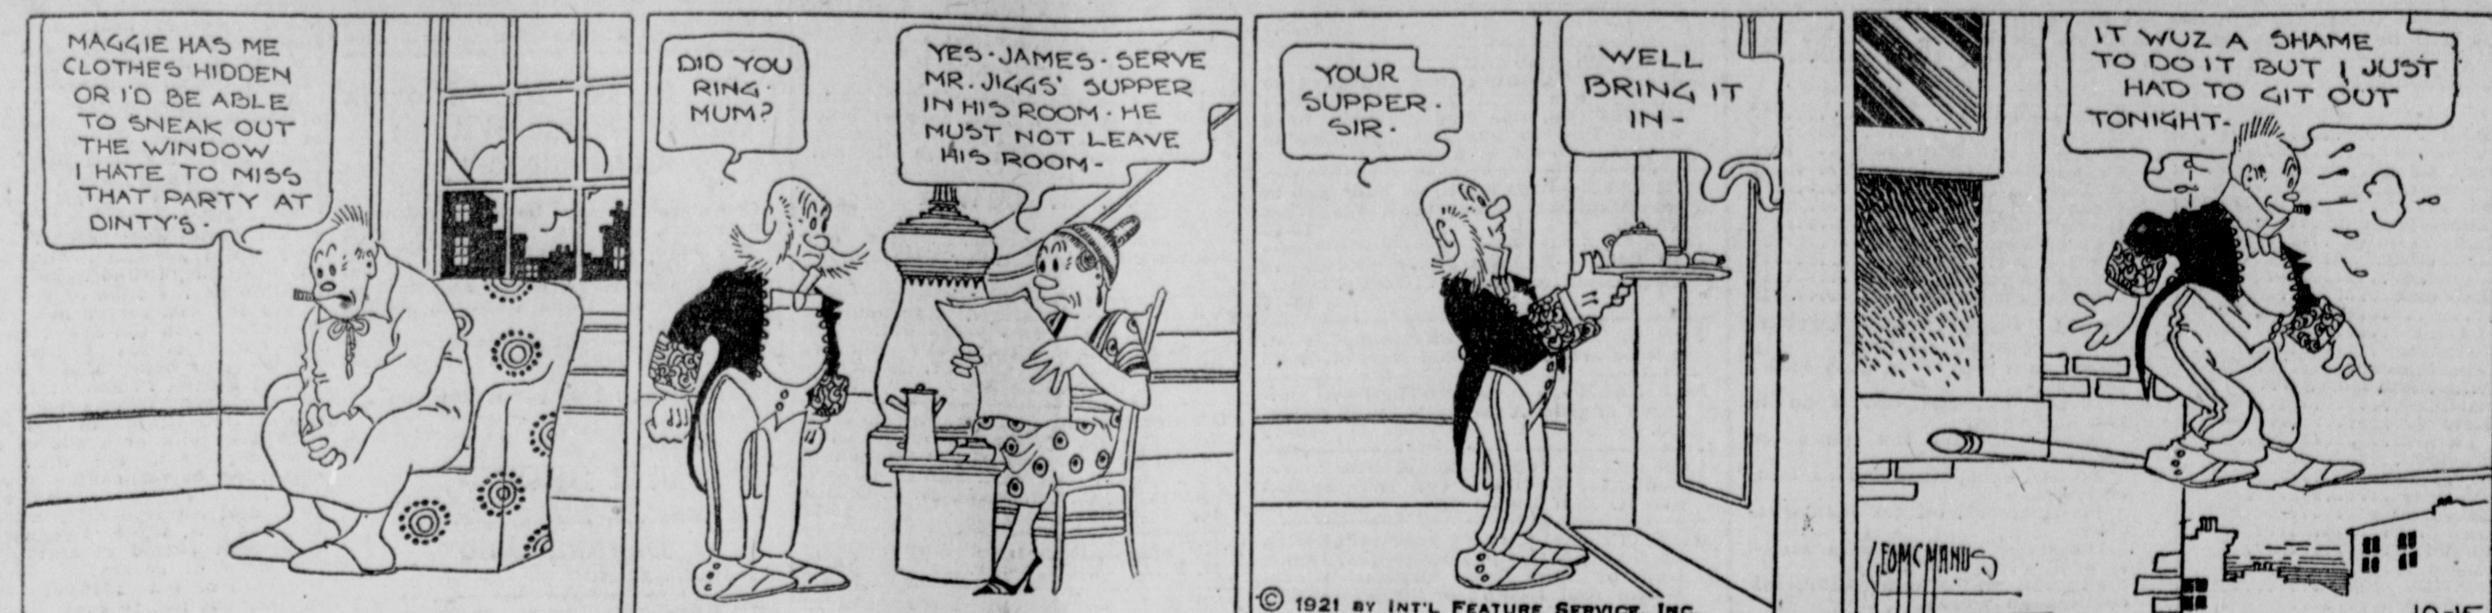

Ehler kicked off to Boxwell and shortly afterward the locals started a march to the goal. After Leatherman had punted to Cowan on Xenia's 40 after the same lad had recovered Boxwell's fumble, Boxwell made seven and then 12 after picking up a fumble. A pass to Purdon failed. Boxwell then hit line for 4. West Alex was penalized five for off side play and a pass Boxwell to Purdon added 5. Boxwell added ten around right end and a ten yard pass Boxwell to Reutinger put the ball on the visitor's five, from where Boxwell carried it over. He kicked goal himself.

The second touchdown came in the second quarter, after a pass Randall to Smith had added 12. Boxwell lost four, but McCallister dashed around left end for 22 and a touch down. The half ended just after the score. The disastrous touchdown of the visitors' came as the half started. The locals' last score came at the start of the fourth quarter after a 20-yard pass, Randall to Reutinger and some of the best charging of the game by Boxwell, Randall and McCallister. McCallister scored from the three-yard line around left end, and Boxwell kicked his third goal. Boxwell's playing throughout, stood out among the freak plays of the blue and white team, which had little to boast of on either defense or offense. The score:

MARGARET VISITS JOAN'S ROOMS CHAPTER 64

Margaret had felt lonely; lonely for the first time since she had decided upon winning her daughter's interest as a woman; her love as a young mother. She dressed with meticulous care for this first visit to her daughter's rooms. One would have thought she was about to attend some society function she was so hard to suit.

"I must look my very best," she said to Hannah who stood beside her. "Joan will perhaps introduce me to some of her young friends and I want to make an impression."

"They will think you are lovely, they can't help it," Hannah returned honestly. To her simple mind the change in her mistress was little short of miraculous. She adored her, and was delighted to see the difference her determination to enjoy herself had wrought.

"I hope so! I want Joan's friends to like me, think me interesting." To Margaret this seemed to more clearly express her feeling than any other word. She wanted oan and her friends to be interested in her; to find her interesting, not because she was Joan's mother; but because she was a woman with a personality of her own.

When Margaret rapped, Joan's young voice bade her enter. Purposely had Margaret appeared a bit earlier than she was expected. Martha Hardy was with Joan, and from the expression on the two girlish faces they had been talking seriously.

"Come in!" Joan called. Then: "Oh, mother!"

"I'm a bit early I know. If you are busy don't let me interrupt you." Margaret kept her tone casual, while her glance wandered about the room.

"No sooner," she warned them, "we don't intend to be hurried, do we girls?" she brightly asked a murmur her answer.

The luncheon was delicious. Breast of chicken with mushrooms a vegetable, a delicious salad, crisp rolls, and a great pitcher of milk.

"I don't drink tea or coffee, except a cup of black coffee at night so my complexion will not suffer," Margaret said gayly. "I am rather proud of my skin."

The half hour was just up when ice cream and delicious cake appeared. Afterward Margaret sank back in a big lounging chair and asked:

"Shall we smoke?"

"I should say not!" Joan replied.

READERS' DISCOVERIES

Mrs. A. "Here is a 'Discovery' I made, which I am sending you in return for the help you gave me in your recent letter: I make a pudding in the following way which tastes like Indian pudding although it hasn't any corn-meal in it. I soak one cup of dry granulated sugar in 1 1/2 pints of coffee (left over from the breakfast-table). After an hour of soaking I turn it into a baking dish with 1/2 cup of sugar and let it bake for an hour in a moderate oven, stirring often. Serve hot with a hard sauce, or cold with a hot liquid sauce."

Alice H. "In grating cheese I find it easier to press it through a large-meshed sieve instead of rubbing it on the grater. If done in this way there is no waste and a good deal of time saved."

Constant Reader: "I keep my wooden kitchen table nice and white by washing the top of it with boiling water in which I dissolve 1 1/2 pounds of washing soda, 1/2 pound of Fuller's earth and a generous quantity of soap."

Old Housekeeper: "Here is a hint of making fish cakes: I boil 1 part of fish and 2 parts of white potatoes together in the same pot in water, to cover. Then, when tender, I drain off this water. I let the drained fish and potato mixture cool, then mix with it only just enough of the water in which it was boiled, to moisten well. After seasoning and adding a little melted butter I form it into small flat cakes. I never dip these cakes in flour. (And they contain no egg.) I simply fry them in a very little lard, in a hot pan. They have a crisp brown crust on both sides and are delicious."

An Interested Reader: "I recently read in your Answered Letters column your reply to reader who had asked how to remove rust from a metal clothesline. I have found success in giving my metal clothesline a coat of white paint. This has improved the looks of the line and saved much of my time—as it now needs only to be wiped off with a damp cloth before using. If one prefers one can enamel the line instead of painting it."

Laundress: "This hint, in return for several that other women have helped me by sending to you to publish, is the best I ever ran across: I always wash white silk gloves, waists and skirts after dark and hang them on the line; I remove them before daylight the next morning. For, light on wet silk will always make it yellow. In washing the silk, use a little ammonia in the water (and a tiny pinch of borax if the garment is greasy along the neck band) but no soap. It seems a pity that so many women let their silk garments get yellow by hanging them out in the daylight."

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

The leaves made music on the trees
All summer at the breezes' will,
And now all brown upon the walk
They make a crispy music still.
